

Question for written answer E-001785/2024/rev.1
to the Commission

Rule 144

Afroditi Latinopoulou (PfE)

Subject: Flagrant violation of the Prespa Agreement and the provocatively irredentist policy of Skopje

Every day that passes brings proof that the Prespa Agreement is a nationally degrading act at Greece's expense. This shameful agreement, which was imposed on the Greek people by force despite their fierce resistance, not only did not solve a single problem but threw the door wide open to new and dangerous claims by Skopje. Not only do they continue to use symbols and names that give a further boost to irredentist tendencies, they also stubbornly refuse to correct the gross historical falsifications in their school textbooks, thereby poisoning the minds of future generations with lies and hatred for Greece. What is most infuriating is that they are systematically and strategically violating an agreement, even though the Syriza government, deplorably, handed a language and a nationality over to them.

In light of the above:

1. Following the reported violations, can consideration to be given to abrogating the Prespa Agreement, damaging as it is to Greece?
2. How much longer will the EU acquiesce in the promotion of a sham national identity based on stolen elements of Greek culture and the usurpation of Greek history?
3. Following the above, does the Commission intend to officially suspend all accession negotiations until there is full compliance on their side with European values and their international obligations towards Greece?
