Question for written answer E-002358/2024
to the Commission
Rule 144
Nikolaos Anadiotis (NI)

Subject: Judiciaries at loggerheads with the civil governments of EU countries

Direct clashes have recently become apparent between the judiciaries and political systems of Member States (see the case of Salvini in Italy).[1][2]

Bound by the European legal framework on issues such as immigration, judges are obstructing democratically elected governments that enjoy popular support and preventing them from enacting their policies by assuming political power and thus completely defying the will of the people.

In view of this:

What measures does the Commission intend to put forward in order to resolve this diversion of powers away from the government and the usurpation of popular sovereignty?
