Subject: Transparency in the allocation of European funds intended for persons with disabilities in France

In France, innovative support structures for persons with disabilities, like Handi Soutien, are facing unjustified administrative obstacles. Para-public organisations, partially financed by the European Social Fund (ESF+), reportedly favour certain entities to the detriment of others, thereby depriving beneficiaries of adapted support.

1. Can the Commission guarantee that use of European funds intended for inclusion adheres to the principles of transparency and fairness?
2. What monitoring mechanisms is the Commission implementing to ensure that no stakeholders are pushed aside arbitrarily and that persons with disabilities fully benefit from support structures financed by the European Union?
