to the Commission
Rule 144
Nikolaos Anadiotis (NI)

Subject: Building infrastructure of special schools in Greece - European Union funding and their utilisation

Special education schools across the Greek territory are faced with a multitude of serious and chronic problems in terms of building, logistical and operational infrastructure, endangering the health and safety of pupils and teachers. Pupils with disabilities are housed in completely unsuitable and even dangerous conditions.¹

Numerous cases of special schools housed in containers, former shops - or even active factory premises - have come to light. The premises do not meet hygiene requirements. Children with special needs are treated as second-class children by the State. All of the above, among other things, provoke strong protests from their parents.

In light of the above, the Commission is asked:

1. In the last decade, in Greece, has the Commission allocated funds for the improvement of existing buildings housing special schools or for the construction of new-build facilities or classrooms?
2. If so, are there official accounts or an implementation report on the allocation of these funds?
