Subject: Response to antisemitic and anti-Israeli actions

Since the Hamas terrorist attacks of 7 October 2023, the EU has been the scene of an unprecedented wave of antisemitic and anti-Israeli actions. This summer witnessed a rise in expressions of hatred towards Jews and Israelis across several Member States.

In Spain, 50 French Jewish children returning from a holiday camp were disembarked from a Vueling flight after singing a song in Hebrew. In an outrageous tweet, the Spanish Minister of Transport labelled them ‘Israeli brats’.

In Greece, a cruise liner carrying Israeli tourists was forced to reroute to Cyprus after a pro-Palestinian crowd prevented it from docking at the island of Syros.

In the Netherlands, two Israelis were hospitalised after being violently assaulted at a holiday park, while threatening slogans were shouted at them.

In Sweden, people were encouraged to gather outside and intimidate an Israeli tourist supposedly staying at a hotel in Stockholm.

1. How does the Commission plan to work with Member States to reinforce the security of Israeli citizens and European Jews who travel within the EU territory?
2. What measures is the Commission ready to take to further reinforce the fight against antisemitism, especially in the guise of anti-Israel rhetoric?
