Subject: Timeline for the decoupling of energy prices from the gas price

Energy-intensive industries are essential for the EU's strategic autonomy and competitiveness, in addition to playing a leading role in job creation. On 4 April 2015, Parliament adopted a text calling on the Commission to identify ways to decouple electricity from gas prices, so as to reduce the EU's dependence on external energy sources and support companies in the EU. This measure would also contribute to a significant reduction in energy costs, with positive economic effects for both businesses and households.

In this context, can the Commission state:

1. Whether it intends to take into account the position taken by both Parliament and the Council, in order to implement decoupling?
2. If so, when will such decoupling take place and how long will it take to implement all the necessary instruments to achieve it?
