

Question for written answer E-004398/2025/rev.1
to the Commission
Rule 144
Gabriela Firea (S&D)

Subject: Failure to prevent the sale of child sexual abuse materials on online marketplaces and the protection of minors under the Digital Services Act

The French Directorate-General for Competition, Consumer Affairs and Fraud Control (DGCCRF) confirmed that the online marketplaces Shein, AliExpress, Temu and Wish had listed for sale sexualised dolls resembling children, products which are considered child sexual abuse material under Directive 2011/93/EU¹.

Although these companies have removed the products, this does not address how such illegal items could be listed and sold within the EU despite obligations under the Digital Services Act to prevent illegal content and protect minors online.

What steps will the Commission take to strengthen coordination between Digital Services Coordinators, Europol and national law-enforcement authorities, including the creation of a permanent EU-level rapid alert and removal mechanism for child sexual abuse material?

Submitted: 6.11.2025

¹ Directive 2011/93/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 13 December 2011 on combating the sexual abuse and sexual exploitation of children and child pornography, and replacing Council Framework Decision 2004/68/JHA (OJ L 335, 17.12.2011, p.1.).