Subject: Demolition and seizure of EU structures in Gaza and West Bank

According to the European press, Italian journalist Gabriele Nunziati lost his job after questioning whether Israel would be paying for the reconstruction of the Gaza strip.

Regardless of this incident, the key question remains of whether Israel intends to compensate the EU for the demolition and seizure of EU-funded structures in Gaza and the West Bank.

Both the Israeli army and Israeli settlers have reportedly been demolishing EU-funded structures since long before 7 October 2023, and it appears that this is still ongoing in the present day.

1. How does the Commission intend to ensure that Israel is held accountable for the demolition and seizure of EU-funded structures in the Gaza strip and the West Bank, in particular following the events of 7 October 2023, and that it provides the EU with adequate compensation?
2. What is the Commission's estimate of the financial impact of the demolition of EU-funded structures in the affected areas?
3. Does the Commission know precisely how many EU-funded buildings have been demolished or seized so far and can it provide, where appropriate, the precise figures?
