Subject: Possible launch of the procedure to add the Muslim Brotherhood to the EU list of terrorist organisations

The May 2025 report from the French intelligence service entitled 'Muslim Brotherhood and political Islamism in France' fuelled widespread concern across the Member States. More recently, the report prompted the French Parliament to adopt a resolution calling on the Commission and the Council to initiate a legal assessment of the Muslim Brotherhood's transnational network, tighten checks on EU funding, recognise the political nature of Islamic separatism and take steps, guided by EU counterterrorism criteria and backed by enhanced Member State cooperation, to potentially add the movement and its leaders to the EU list of terrorist organisations.

The Muslim Brotherhood certainly poses a threat to the fundamental principles of the EU: it promotes a political and religious separatism that inherently undermines sovereignty and the constitutional order, and its European network branches throughout the Member States (even extending to Islamic centres and imams) in its pursuit of an agenda incompatible with the rule of law.

In view of the above, can the Commission say whether it will consider launching the procedure, in accordance with the rule of law, to add the Muslim Brotherhood and its leaders to the EU list of terrorist organisations?
