

Question for written answer E-003666/2026
to the Commission

Rule 144

Ilaria Salis (The Left), Benedetta Scuderi (Verts/ALE), Mimmo Lucano (The Left), Gaetano Pedulla' (The Left), Cecilia Strada (S&D), Pina Picierno (Renew)

Subject: REPowerEU-funded redevelopment of public housing in Milan's Lulli-Porpora district

REPowerEU is funding the energy and structural retrofitting of four publicly-owned apartment blocks (Nos 30 and 30a in Via Lulli and Nos 43 and 47 in Via Porpora) in Milan, a project put forward by the Lombardy Regional Executive and ALER, the city's housing agency.

The tenants' association and certain trade unions have, however, pointed out that the plan entails the compulsory rehousing of the residents concerned – including a great many elderly people, persons living with disabilities, vulnerable families and households with children – for a period of up to three years in accommodation that could be located in another district. It also appears that ALER has already entertained the notion of resorting to forced evictions.

The residents and trade unions concerned have proposed staggering the retrofitting works and using the 100 or so flats at No 47, Via Porpora, to temporarily house tenants so that they can remain in the neighbourhood and avoid disruptions to their social networks and care and welfare arrangements.

In the light of the above:

1. Does the Commission hold that the ALER-Lombardy Region project's arrangements uphold the rights enshrined in the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights?
2. Will it verify whether the Lulli-Porpora project and its implementation comply with the conditions – particularly those concerning the protection of vulnerable residents – laid down for the use of REPowerEU funds?
3. Will the Commission call on the competent authorities to assess the alternative plan proposed by the Lulli-Porpora tenants and ensure that the latter are genuinely involved in the project going forwards?

Supporter¹

Submitted: 15.9.2026

¹ This question is supported by a Member other than the authors: Cristina Guarda (Verts/ALE).