to the Commission

Rule 144

Christian Doleschal (PPE)

Subject: Effects on the single market of Germany's Act on Data and Digital Innovation in Healthcare (GeDIG)

Germany has notified the Commission of its draft Act on Data and Digital Innovation in Healthcare (GeDIG) under the 'TRIS' procedure for the notification of technical regulations (notification number 2026/0378/DE). The bill's aims include expanding digital access to healthcare and improving the integration of digital health services.

1. What does the Commission make of the GeDIG bill in light of the principles of the single market, in particular discrimination-free market access and a level playing field for private and cross-border providers of digital health services?
2. Does it perceive risks to the single market if access to key digital health infrastructure or its features is reserved for certain institutional entities, while other providers are denied similar technical access or integration opportunities?
3. Does it intend to raise these aspects with the German authorities in the ongoing TRIS procedure and perhaps push for open, interoperable and technologically neutral access conditions?
