Answer given by Ms Roswall
on behalf of the European Commission
(8.12.2025)

At this stage, the Commission does not plan to propose extending the scope of the EU Deforestation Regulation (EUDR)¹ to other wooded land, other ecosystems or raw materials. No preparatory work is currently being undertaken yet on an impact assessment in this regard.

On 21 October 2025, the Commission adopted a proposal² to amend the EUDR. The amendment aims to reduce the load on the EUDR Information System and ease the administrative burden for farmers, foresters, and other economic operators, while maintaining the Regulation's environmental integrity. It introduces targeted simplifications and transitional periods to ensure a smooth and effective entry into application.

In addition, the proposal also streamlines the review clause by including all aspects of Article 34 within the general review clause of 2030. This proposed change will allow the Commission to assess the different aspects of the review by taking into account the new proposed deferred entry into application and factual evidence from EUDR implementation on the ground.

¹ Regulation (EU) 2023/1115 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 31 May 2023 on the making available on the Union market and the export from the Union of certain commodities and products associated with deforestation and forest degradation and repealing Regulation (EU) No 995/2010, OJ L 150, 9.6.2023, p. 206–247.

² Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council amending Regulation (EU) 2023/1115 as regards certain obligations of operators and traders, COM/2025/652 final.
