Answer given by Ms Roswall

(27.1.2026)

The Commission presented a proposal to amend the EU Deforestation Regulation (EUDR)¹ in order to reduce the load on the EUDR Information System and ease the administrative burden for economic operators, while maintaining the Regulation's environmental integrity. On 4 December 2025, the co-legislators agreed on the revised EUDR². The new date of entry into application will be 30 December 2026 for all companies except for most micro- or small operators, for which it will be 30 June 2027. For micro- or small operators already covered by the EU Timber Regulation³, the entry into application will be 30 December 2026.

The amendments to the EUDR also limit the obligation to submit due diligence statements to the first operator placing the relevant products on the market. Downstream operators, such as retreading industry or craft businesses, will no longer need to submit due diligence statements, nor to pass on the reference numbers further in the supply chain.

The Commission Impact Assessment (IA)⁴ underpinning the initial legislative proposal estimated that the costs of compliance for companies, in a range from 0.29% to 4.3% of the overall value of imports, are significantly lower than the expected benefits. The potential impact on the prices of final consumer goods, including food, is expected to be limited, based on the findings of the IA, other reports on cost estimates of due diligence legislation, and the previous regulatory experience on wood⁵. The findings of the IA also did not indicate a risk of insufficient or unstable supply related to the EUDR⁶ rules.
