The EU-Indonesia Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement¹ provides for a balanced, comprehensive, and win-win outcome for both sides. Indonesia will eliminate just over 98% of tariffs on products exported by the EU, representing and close to 100% in terms of trade value.

The 50% reduction in export duties ensures that the EU gains preferential treatment compared to other countries. The agreement also includes a comprehensive and satisfactory set of provisions on raw materials (including nickel and cobalt), which will enhance the integration of supply chains in this area, to the benefit of both the EU industry and Indonesian operators.
