(6.2.2026)

The Commission closely monitors developments around corruption allegations in Ukraine. The uncovering of corruption cases in Ukraine demonstrates that anti-corruption institutions in Ukraine are delivering on their mandate and building a track record of investigations.

There are no confirmed cases of EU funding being misappropriated in Ukraine.

There are three main channels of disbursement of funds to Ukraine from the Commission: the Ukraine Facility¹, the Extraordinary Revenue Acceleration² and the European Peace Facility³. All budget support is disbursed to the Government of Ukraine upon the fulfilment of defined conditions, which include safeguards concerning corruption and the proper use of funds.

All financial support received by the Government of Ukraine from the EU is subject to anti-fraud measures and provisions allowing for controls of funds, with the possibility to take corrective action if issues arise. This includes provisions allowing the European Anti-Fraud Office, the European Public Prosecutor's Office and the European Court of Auditors to carry out any technical or financial controls and investigations that they consider necessary.

In the case of the funds disbursed under the Ukraine Facility, an independent Audit Board has been set up, to provide oversight, including in the area of public procurement. Furthermore, in the context of the EU accession negotiations, Ukraine has committed to achieve high levels of alignment with relevant EU acquis in the areas of public procurement, defence procurement, audit and control systems.

The Commission will continue to closely monitor implementation and, where appropriate, assess the need for adjustments on the basis of identified risks, including corruption risks.
