The Anti-Racism Strategy 2026–2030¹ aims to create a more equal and inclusive EU by tackling racism in all its forms. It focuses on enforcing anti-discrimination legislation, addressing societal barriers in areas such as education, employment, healthcare and housing, and strengthening social cohesion.

The Strategy also responds to the European Parliament’s call for a long-term approach to combating racism and promotes equal treatment of all people living in the EU regardless of skin colour².

The stakeholders consulted in the preparation of the Anti-Racism Strategy underlined the need for comprehensive training programmes for law enforcement authorities and greater transparency and accountability within law enforcement agencies. To provide further guidance to Member States, the Commission will compile a compendium of good practices to prevent discriminatory profiling practices.
