The human rights situation in Iran, notably the cases of Taraneh Rahimi and Leila Abolhasani

Joint motion for a resolution

Recital C a (new)

Joint motion for a resolution

Amendment

Ca. whereas, additionally, UN human rights experts and authors of a growing body of scientific literature have found strong evidence that economic sanctions have significantly worsened the human rights situation, damaging, in particular, the right to health by restricting the Iranian people's access to medicines for non-communicable diseases, with dramatic impacts documented specifically for cancer patients, including for radiotherapy treatment, as well as for asthma, thalassaemia and haemophilia patients; whereas the media have also reported insulin and thyroid pill shortages, and previous rounds of sanctions even saw a 14-fold price increase for dietary formula for infants with food allergies;

Joint motion for a resolution

Paragraph 6 a (new)

Joint motion for a resolution

Amendment

6a. Stresses that recent US-Israeli military attacks have dramatically worsened the human rights situation in Iran, including by violating the right to life of thousands of Iranian civilians; calls therefore for the EU to support accountability for human rights violations through multilateral UN-based mechanisms and to firmly condemn any threat or use of force in violation of international law and the UN Charter;

Paragraph 7 a (new)

Joint motion for a resolution

Amendment

7a. Considers, in addition, that EU sanctions have severely and negatively affected the human rights situation in Iran, particularly public health, access to medicines, including cancer treatments, and food security; calls therefore for the immediate lifting of those EU sanctions on Iran that negatively affect the human rights and living conditions of the Iranian people;
