119. Calls for an ambitious and constructive approach to address migration phenomena at their root and to facilitate the establishment of legal pathways, with a sustained focus on talent and people development; emphasises that the Mediterranean remains one of the main migration routes and recognises that tackling irregular migration – while upholding the right to seek asylum in the EU – is a complex yet urgent and necessary challenge requiring effective cooperation with the EU's Southern Neighbourhood partners, both as origin and transit countries;

119. Underlines that combating illegal immigration and ensuring effective border protection must be core priorities of the Pact for the Mediterranean; calls for cooperation with countries of origin and transit to focus on preventing illegal departures, dismantling migrant smuggling networks and ensuring the effective return and readmission of non-EU nationals with no legal right to remain in the Member States;
